Noted Lecturer Addresses Many Upon Prohibition

Sam Small Delights Big Audience At Sixth Street Theater Thru His Witty Remarks—Compares Liquor To A Louse Inasmuch As Both Feed On The Heads Of Families

The Sixth street theatre was packed last night when Sam Small gave a church and not enough back seats, most entertaining lecture for prohibition. The rare choice of illustrations brightened the hearth that doesn't know with which he brot home his points to the needs saving and don't care what his hearers, his clever impersonations, becomes of the man next door. But and his great number of expressive adjectives kept his audience interested, and also brot a large portion of it in sympathy with his views, judging by the hearty applause which he received from time to time.

In his preliminary remarks, he stated that the nations of Europe are paying for their devilry by the present war, which is God's way of punishing people who have refused righteousness. As long as the United States sanctions the liquor traffic, she is refusing righteousness, and she will have to pay for her devilry too, was the substance of his introduction.

LONDON, OCT. 20.—Two German raiders attacked a convoy in the North sea on Wednesday and sank two of the British escorting destroyers. It was announced officially today by the British war office.

The official announcement says that three merchant vessels escaped in the action, but that five Norwegian, one Danish and three Swedish vessels were sunk without warning.

Thirty Norwegians were rescued by British patrol craft.

The raiders, which were heavily armed, showed anxiety to escape before they could be intercepted by British forces, adds the official statement, and made no attempt to rescue the crews of the sunken destroyers.

Federated Club Convention Site Still Undecided

Whether or not Coshocton will have the convention of the State Federation of Women's clubs next year was not settled at the Federation meeting which has just closed in Akron.

Mrs. Eliza Bellart, president of the Coshocton City Federation of Women's clubs, extended the invitation to the body to meet here in 1918, and the matter will be decided by the new executive board before the first of December.

About 500 women usually attend these conventions, which have always been held in cities considerably larger than Coshocton. But many delegates from Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton and other larger cities, expressed themselves as in favor of accepting Mrs. Bellart's invitation.

Coshocton has unusually good hotel accommodations for a town of its size, and the Chamber of Commerce and many of the merchants have pledged their support to the women provided they land the convention.

Miss Nora Hall Resigns Position

Miss Nora Hall, bookkeeper at the Morning Tribune for the past four years, has resigned her position and accepted the position of assistant business manager of the Times, the controlling interest in which was sold last week to a newspaper man from Indianapolis.

Imperial Band To Take Part In Big Parade

The Coshocton Imperial band will march in the big parade. The city is directing the services of the band as they do not complete their required number of concerts at the Park. One concert was to have been given, but owing to the cold weather was withheld.

Great preparations are being made for the big celebration and already several of the merchants have their windows filled with false faces and everything that goes to make an enjoyable All Saints Eve.

Plans For Reprisals.

All the big raid, in recent weeks have been conducted by means of airplanes which proved extremely difficult to combat on the moonlit nights chosen for their operations. After the last series of raids, during which heavy casualties occurred, it was announced that a reprisal policy had been decided upon by the British government.

The last previous use of the Zeppelins for raiding purposes was on Sept. 21, when an airplane raiding fleet also damaged to some extent, says the brief statement issued.

Just when it appeared that the German had virtually abandoned the use of the Zeppelin for air raids on England because of the effective defense planes which had been established against them, another Zeppelin fleet has penetrated the eastern and northeastern counties and reached at least the edge of the London area.

The bombs dropped by the raiders killed 27 persons and injured 53 others, it is officially announced. These casualties cover all the districts visited. Houses and business structures were damaged to some extent, says the brief statement issued.

RED CROSS NEEDS

The Germans lost two of their big ships on Nov. 28 of last year, when a raid was being attempted and thereafter all thru the spring, summer and early fall of this year airplanes have been used almost exclusively for these teeth-deadly visits.	EVESVILLE, O., OCT. 26.—Coshocotown won her first football game of the season at Evesville Saturday afternoon by the score of 14-0. Watson and Wolfe of Coshocotown starred for the local team, both making touch-	downs. The forward pass was used extensively in the game and made the touchdowns possible. Barnes, fullback, also played an excellent game, making two goals out of two tries for the locals.
In another raid over the Vosges a Zeppelin was brought down at Ramscvillers, near the Alsace border and two more were forced to land by French aircraft guns.	IS NIGHT CLERK. Russell "Hans" Wagner, of Adams street, has accepted a position as night clerk at the Coshocotown hotel. He has been employed in another capacity in the hotel.	LAYS NEW SIDEWALK. A new side walk is being laid in front of Joe Decker's store on West Main street. The board walk which covered a cellar way has been replaced with cement.

WORKERS AT UNCE

If you want to see women who are giving gladly freely of their time and strength and energy for the sake of lightening the suffering of humanity - stop in at the Red Cross headquarters on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

If you are a man what you see there will send your hand down into your pocket for money which will make the continuance of this work possible. If you are a woman you will plan then and there how your many duties and obligations may be arranged so that you, too, may have a part in this splendid work.

Women are doing valiant deeds in the world today but no women are laboring more faithfully, nor with greater assurance that the results of their labor will go so exactly where it is needed than those who work under the banner of the Red Cross.

Financially it is not remunerative. Every committee member, every worker gives of her time and strength (the money raised goes to the purchase of materials from which supplies are made) but no one can work there and not feel repaid in the thought that what she is doing may make living easier, may even save life, for some soldier or sailor who otherwise might never see home again.

There is no work in the world today more self-sacrificing than that of the Red Cross. There is no work which is more needed.

Man to spend part of your time next week in the Red Cross work room. If you are a skilled needle woman you are needed. If unskilled you are needed quite as much.

At the beginning of the Staats administration the money in the various ordinary current city funds left over by Mayor Cassinberry's administration amounted to $925,575. In the two years of Staats' term the funds increased to $1,355,561 and at the beginning of Mayor Richardson's administration January 1, 1916, the money on hand in these funds left over by the Staats' administration amounted to $1,438,916.

When the present administration had been in power one year the money on these funds had shrunk to $24,111 and this disappearance affords them "a concentrated bombardment of the enemy's position."

"What subjects are best adapted for beginners' practice in mind reading?" asks the inquisitive subscriber of Wharton. That sort of thing is Sanskrit to us, but if you hear a girl ask her bean why he doesn't save his money by investing it in a dungeon you might see if you can make out what she is thinking of.—Houston Post.

When the present administration had been in power one year the money on these funds had shrunk to $24,111 and this disappearance affords them "a concentrated bombardment of the enemy's position."

It is remembered that through a clerical error the city was over paid $10,000 on the August settlement in 1916 by the county officials which had to be accounted for at the February, 1917, settlement with the county so that the surplus of $12,284.96 on hand at the beginning of Mayor Richardson's term had really disappeared at the end of the first year of his term and in its stead was a deficit of $12,000. On January 22, 1917, the council authorized a loan and the city began borrowing money to pay the ordinary current salaries and wages of its employees.

Mrs. L. A. Patterson, 1399 Kentucky St., Memphis, Tennessee, writes:

"I have been a friend of Peruna for many years. I have used it off and on for catarrhal complaints and found it a very excellent remedy. I have a small family of children. We always recommend Peruna to our neighbors, for the benefit it has been to us."

ORRINE FOR DRINKING MEN

We are in earnest when we ask you to give Orrine a trial. Plans are now under way for a tremendous campaign in Coshocton county next week. Wednesday designated by the President as Liberty Day will see twenty-two automobiles loads of Liberty Loan boosters sweeping the county. They will be supplied with the actual bonds and are expecting to sell them in record breaking quantities.

Uncle Sam is asking you for money in the form of a loan because he does not want to resort to extreme taxation measures to raise the money he must have to prosecute this war.

Taxes are heavy now but should be unthinkable thing happen and the loan not be adequately subscribed they will be heavier. What is more they will hit the average man and woman much harder than the present system because those additional taxes must of necessity be consumption taxes. Should they be levied it means that the price of everything we eat, everything we wear will of necessity be forced higher. Uncle Sam doesn't want to collect more taxes than he has arranged for but he has to—well he is some tax collector. But you should subscribe to the Liberty Loan not because it is a good way to save money, not because you prefer to taxation due because it is the patriotic duty of every man and woman in the country. Now for or how must the line of ammunition and camp supplies fall if our men are to be cared for and it takes money, millions upon millions of dollars to sustain them. Think of this loan not merely in terms of dollars, think of it in terms of uniforms, equipment, ammunitions, food. Think of it as providing the sustenance which our soldiers must have. Think, too, that it is not merely the soldiers who are enlisted for service, when the nation went to war, the nation automatically enlisted, war was not declared to protect a few but to protect all and the resulting obligations must be born by all. All cannot fight but all can at least stand behind the fighters. If all cannot actually go to war they can provide the funds which will work for a successful culmination to the war.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

This farce comes to the Sixth St. Theatre Friday, October 26. Fred Lehman first conceived the funny burlesque idea of this farce and put that idea into book form. James Montgomery from that book elaborated the play with which G. M. Anderson and L. Lawrence Weber, with keen foresight have added to it a sensational character and at the same time their bank account. It is a clean, bright and yet simple story of a ten thousand dollar wager that the hero can confine his utterances to "Nothing But The Truth" for a certain period. This is the first of a series of plays which are being evolved by the author, carrying out of the world's desire to speak but truthfully. Here we get a good idea of the play. So to get the full details and enjoy returns.

THIS HAWK KILLED FORTY HENS

"This hawk killed forty hens. Did the farmers license him? They shot him."

The farmers did not say, "Aw, what's the use? Let him go on killin' the hens, so we can get the feathers."

They did not say, "Aw, gwan! If we kill this hawk some other hawk will come an' why discriminate between laws? If we could kill all the hawks at wunst, it would be different. Let the hawk go along an' we will get some of the meat."

The farmers did not say, "That hawk has got a lot o' money invested in claws an' we don't want to destroy all his property. It ain't right."

The farmers did not say, "I'm agin interferein' with the hawk's personal liberty. Hasn't he a right to make his livin' jest as he sees fit? Why should we interfere with the hawk's privit business an' dictate to him as to what he shall eat and drink?"

The farmers did not try to work off any of this sort of rot. They destroyed the hawk that was destroying their chickens.

Just so it is proposed to destroy the institution known as the saloon, which is grinding up the sons and daughters of men in order to make money out of their downfall.

But a few would like to continue the bloody process in order that the taxpayers may share in the profits.

THAT MOTHER

Not long ago I stood in the street as the boys of the regiment marched by to the train. Beside me stood a woman. She attracted my attention because I could see that she was eagerly watching for someone in the marching line. It was not long before I could tell that the one she was looking for was coming. In a minute a tall, well built boy just of age, I should say, approached. As he walked by us he straightened, saluted, and, with the slightest tremor in his voice, said "Good-bye, mother."

I could see that the boy was proud of his mother—proud that he was her son, and proud that he was doing his best to fulfill her ideal of what an American boy should do. By her quick breathing I could tell that the mother was doing her best to control herself. Doubtless she had lived thru these minutes many times in the last few days, and she had determined that her boy—the boy that she loved infinitely more than life itself—should go away with the feeling that his mother could be true to the things she had tried to teach him.

All she said was "Goodbye, son, God keep you." It was an incident that I shall never forget. I wish that I could tell you what I saw in her face. Her boy was going—going, perhaps, never to return. All the dreams that she had of her boy's future, all the plans that she had made for him, and all that they had made together, were things of the past.

She was making the supreme sacrifice. She was giving her boy—the boy that she had nursed, cuddled, watched and prayed over—to her country, to your country, to my country. She was giving of her life that freedom may be preserved for you and for me. Her face showed no sign of resentment. I could see the yearning for the boy that was going, but I could also see that she was proud that she had such a son to give to her country.

I have no boy to give. I am too old to fight well, and it is only those who can fight well that are wanted. It is not in me now to equal that mother's sacrifice. It is strange that in the scheme of things the opportunities for sacrifice are so unevenly distributed. But as I walked away, I made up my mind that my dollars, at least, would go to help bring that boy back to his mother. And if I ever weaken in my determination, I am sure that the inspiration of that woman's face will strengthen my resolution.

How do you feel about it?—Geo. F. Burda in The Columbus Dispatch.

SANCTIFYING OUR MONEY

Herbert Quick, of the Federal Farm Loan Board, says American money is sanctified by the Liberty Loans. In a recent contribution to the newspapers he says:

Money used to save liberty to the world becomes sacred. The Liberty Loan money devoted to that great cause. Constitutional Liberty was born in England, and was transplanted in America by our forefathers. Our history and England's are the same down to 140 years ago.

The defeat of the Spanish Armada, the victories of the parliamentary and the parliamentary triumphs of Pitt, Fox, Burke and Bayne are as much our victories as those of the people of the British Islands. The democracy built up in the British Isles is our democracy. Our titles to our liberties, the validity of our government is on trial in the trenches today.

For 140 years we have been getting much money in America. We

WILD GEESE
BY WALT MASON

Wild geese were flying south today. I found them looking overhead and to my aunt I used to say, "The winter's coming, autumn's dead. It's put to me to lay in coal, to buy a stock of food and spices, to strip my skin and measure roll for weather strips and winter duds." The weather prophet, in his den, may tell us what next week may bring, but all the prophecies of men are merely tomorrow's, by fire. I would not for cold days prepare, if warned by any human seer; man says tomorrow will be cold, and it is dark and black and dreary. Man says tomorrow will be cold, and it's so hot no steam in sweat no weather rightly was foretold by any human prophet yet. The wild geese have no maps or charts, no instruments of brass or steel; they do not try to break our hearts with "highs" or "lows" or kindred spiel. They have no traps to measure wind, to weigh the clouds or test the air, but when for southern climes they've skinned, for wintry days we should prepare. I saw the wild geese gallivant, some southern island is their goal; so lend me forty bones, dear aunt, and I'll law in a stock of coal."

have had the greatest opportunity ever vouchsafed any people to amass riches. We have had freedom, democracy and a virgin continent at just the time when commerce has been spreading over all the earth by steam and electricity.

We have gained the reputation of being money-grubbers. We have been called Yaboo boys. We have been suspected of being devoted to greed rather than patriotism. For three years we drew to ourselves a stream of wealth greater than any people ever received before. The rest of the world was being drained dry, starved thin, and bled white; but we waxed richer and richer.

And now arises the supreme opportunity of all our history. We suddenly find ourselves in the position of trustees of all this wealth, and in no sense its owners. Destiny has been very good to America. Fate has made us the richest people on earth, the hugest reservoir of industrial power the planet ever bore.

The rest of the world and some of us have that that destiny meant to let us get away with all this plunder; but it is not so. God knew better all the time. It belongs to Liberty, and not to us. Britain, the mother of our Liberty, and France, its godmother, have been sending it to us for three years to be held in trust for their supreme hour, and for the extreme hour of Democracy itself.

IT MUST GO BACK! To keep it would give us a puny victory, but it would kill the nation's soul. We are vouchsafed the privilege of proving that our here is not filthy but holy. THE LIBERTY LOAN MEANS THE SANCTIFICATION OF AMERICA'S WEALTH. To the great chancery of the God of battles we shall go with hands full, and come out with hands clean. Thank God for that!

Arabs Still Eating Manna.

The manna with which the children of Israel were fed in the desert was the honey dew of a species of insect bug which lives on the tamarisk. These bugs secrete it in just the same way that the aphids secrete the hoary dew that is the food of the ants. The Arabs still eat the "manna" and their name for it today is "man."

PEOPLE'S

Editor The Tribune:

I would like to have you reproduce these words of Benjamin Franklin, the father of electricity, the statesman and diplomat. It strikes me that these words are of sufficient import to silence the tongue of Samuel Small and others of his ilk.

Let me disgress a moment to predict that Ohio will go 150,000 wet. The dry boys will not carry twelve counties in the state, thanks to the bone-dry law, but to Franklin's words:

"In America's national drink, in Nature's favorite tonic, I pledge the good will of mine own people with the hope that the red wines of France and the rich, brown liquor of our own struggling Republic may ever mingle in stimulating our children's children to everlasting friendship, combining the brilliancy of the old Bourbons with the strength and vigor of the world's youngest nation."

NOTICE TO

Positive Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieves Suffering.

Bridgeport, N.J.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for inflammation and other weaknesses. I was very irregular and would have terrible pains so that I could hardly take a step. Sometimes I would be so miserable that I could not sweep a room. I doctored part of the time but felt no change. I later took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt a change for the better. I took it until I was in good healthy condition. I recommend the Pinkham remedies to all women as I have used them with such good results."—Mrs. MILDRED T. CUMMINGS, 322 Harmony St., Penn's Grove, N. J.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence of the excellence of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy for the distressing ills of women such as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, backache, painful periods, nervousness and kindred ailments.

WILSON ASKS

of right, a nation which has sought from the earliest days of its existence to the obedience to the divine teachings which have inspired it in the exercise of its liberties, to turn always to the Supreme master and cast their selves in faith at his feet, praying for His aid and succor in every hour of trial to the end that the great aims to which our fathers dedicated our power as a people may not perish among men, but be always asserted and defended with fresh ardor and thru the divine blessing, set at last upon enduring foundations for the benefit of all the free peoples of the earth.

"Now therefore, I Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, gladly responding to the wish expressed by the congress, do appoint October 28th, being the last Sunday of the present month, as a day of supplication and prayer for all the people of the nation, honestly exhorting all my countrymen to observe the appointed day according to their several faiths in solemnity to their several faiths in solemnity upon the high task which is laid upon us, to the end that the cause for which we give our lives and treasure may triumph and our efforts be blessed with high achievement."

NOTED LECTURER

why does the wet faction kick every time it is mentioned? It isn't because I dislike the looks of the house that I don't want him in my wool. I examined him with a microscope, and he's as fine a piece of machinery for his job as God ever made. It's his bite I don't like. So when I think one of those animals is in my hair, I go after him with a fine tooth comb. I use prohibition on him. And I don't draw a circle around a spot on my head and give him local option, either. I'm not in favor of local option for lice or locusts, for they both feed on the head of families."

Maine And Prohibition.
Stall did not make his lecture easy with statistics, but gave a few, which were encouraging to the future of prohibition. He stated that 26 out of the 45 states now have prohibition and that 50 percent of the territory in the United States is dry. In giving these statistics, he mentioned that Maine had had prohibition for 56 years, "and you can be sure that if those Maine Yankees hold on to any thing that long, they're pretty sure they have the best end of the bargain." A timely point made by the speaker was that no Liberty Loan bond signs appear in saloon windows, as far as he has been able to observe. He has been touring Ohio during the past day, and not one poster has been seen in a saloon window.

Mrs. John Smith and Miss Mary Smith, of this city, spent Saturday morning in Columbus.

NEWARK ELEVEN IS HERE TODAY

Manager Otto Bries declared last night that his Independent would line up at the Red Sox this afternoon determined to defeat the fast Newark eleven which comes here for its initial appearance.

Bries has imported one or two new players and now has more than twenty men from which to pick his lineup. The game will be started at 3:30. Upon today's attendance probably depends the fate of the Independent football season in this city.

E. W. Jacobs of this city, and Joe Miller, of Wheeling, W. Va., are in Columbus attending the dairy show.

UNDER THE KNIFE.

Dr. J. G. Snalles, assisted by Dr. E. C. Carr, performed an operation on Miss Rebecca Stewart for the removal of tonsils Saturday morning.

Clarence Helweg, son of Isaac, of New Bedford, who fractured his leg in three places while playing at the Keene school of Friday was reported to be suffering last night. The little fellow will probably have an X Ray picture taken of the injured member next week.

L. D. Bainter has purchased the electrical stock from Fred Switzer and will continue the business with his office at 981 Walnut street.

Mr. Switzer has accepted a position as electrician with the Glass company.

The Community Day exercises which were to have been held in Fresno Friday were postponed until next Wednesday on account of the inclement weather.

ABSOLUTE SECURITY

That is what you get in United States Government

— B O N D S —

Read what the International Banking House of J. P. Morgan & Co. have to say of them

Emphasizing the unassailable security behind the Liberty Bonds Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., pointed out that the resources behind the loan consists of the wealth of the United States, estimated at $225,000,000,000. The income of the country, he said, is $40,000,000,000 every year.

"The resources of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Russia combined hardly equal those of the United States," he said, "and the income of all these people nothing like equals our income. Yet, those countries since the war began have raised $40,000,000,000 in the form of Government loans. They have done it in the midst of fighting, destruction and death right at their doors."

Liberty Bonds are equally as secure as the currency with which you buy your groceries, meats and clothing. The same security exactly is behind them.

cept Liberty Bonds at their face value in payment for any debt or in exchange for anything you may think of purchasing at some future date. His answer will always be—YES! CHEERFULLY! BRING THEM IN.

CHANGING THE CHARGE

Changing a charge filed by the arresting officer against a prisoner so as to allow him to be arraigned in new court under a state law rather than a city ordinance has been a favorite pastime of the present administration in its merry game of taggging, according to one of Michael Gorman's arguments in his race for the mayorship on the independent ticket.

"An examination of the records at the city hall would convince any fair minded voter that Coshocton badly needs a change in administration," and what is more, I believe, it would convince him also that while Staats was mayor the interests of the taxpayers were looked after very little if any better.

"It would appear the records will prove, that the office of mayor has been conducted in a manner principally to get the most out of it in fees with little or not regard for who is due the city, which is the taxpayer. What mattered it the city did lose money that was due it in fines as long as the mayor and chief of police 'got theirs.' For instance, persons arrested by a patrolman on a charge of fighting or disorderly conduct were tried before the mayor on a charge of assault. This is why. On the former charge the prisoner might properly be tried under a city ordinance and the fine would have gone to the city. Under the latter charge it is permissible only to try the prisoner under a state law, in which case the fine goes to Coshocton county and what was more important, both the mayor and police chief grabbed fees.

Under J. W. Cassingham's administration, Police Chief Maple was paid no fees, the mayor basing his refusal to allow Chief Maple to get these 'pickings' on an opinion of the late John C. Adams, then city solicitor, backed by an opinion from former Attorney General Tim Hogan. However, just as soon as Lloyd Staats entered office as mayor, on January 1, 1914, the records show Chief Maple started drawing fees of 50 cents for each prisoner arraigned. Then not satisfied with this 'rake off,' the records show that two months later, or on March 2, 1914, Chief Maple had his share of the fees raised to $1.15 per head. Whether or not this was done owing to the increased cost of living, has not been explained, but Staats has said he 'was advised to do it.' So much for Staats' legal ability. It was expensive legal advice for Coshocton. Under these conditions, is it any wonder that the city finances have been limited despite the fact that taxes are high?

If the salary paid the mayor is not high enough to attract able and capable citizens to take the job, why not raise it and eliminate the fee-grabbing that has been costing the city several times more annually than such a raise would mean?

The docket shows that the police chief has filed all warrants against arrested persons during the past four years. The only reason evident for this state of affairs is that by his filing these warrants instead of the arresting officer, who is the only official in position to know the facts connected with the arrest and therefore able to testify under oath, he is able under the state law to collect a fee for the same. Should the arresting officer file the affidavit, no fee would be collected. However, since I entered this campaign the mayor was notified by the State Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices that the police chief is not nor has he been entitled to this fee. It probably appeared in the state inspector that we have a one-man police department as the docket showed. John R. Maple signed all warrants. Chief Maple has been allowed to collect the fee for the past four years.

What are you doing to do about it?

REGULAR FLOATING CITY IS BATTLESHIP

A modern battleship is a city of tourists, lines and operators, just as much as a city of active men, women and children. In fact, every line means the equivalent of at least 2000 men, three protecting armor plate or men, women and children, as construction of armor plate. Communication reports 20. In municipal organizations in time of battle is as important as certain cooperative plans are vital to the ship as a man's nervous system to efficient and economic operation is to a prisoner's; which unless it is a man of war.

First in importance comes electric power and light. There are two fully equipped dynamo rooms, one forward and one aft, each independent of the other. Individually they are capable of supplying the ship in case a torpedo should be exploded. Ten huge turbo-generators supply hundreds of thousands of kilowatts to cranes and winches, motors, searchlights, wireless and the 1700 incandescent lamps. Two complete distribution rooms and the enormous power to its million terminals.

A modern battleship is a two city sun and his strikers pass ponder. The blocks long and a third wide. Many sailors call them 'back spots' or just hundreds of compartments as in a 'sport' vast dwelling place or factory must be connected by telephone. There is a complete system, with central, cause they have their own barber shops in a 5-inch gun compartment. Seven barbers shave and shear eight hours a day—except when the howlers shriek alarm. "Man the Battery!" rattles the lather jugs and reverberates across the six plate-glass mirrors, and Mr. Barber becomes a human element of the nearest barrette.

In ancient times, say 1912, sailors rose at 5 A. M. and scrubbed their own clothes. Now a first-class laundryman turns out at 4:20 A. M. and with a corps of expert assistants, does it for them. This costs each sailor 40 cents a month for all the clean clothes he needs. Officers pay 1 cent a piece. A ship's laundry recently took in $13,000 in six months. Profits buy movie films, magazines and phonograph records.

Sick Bay in nautical language means hospital. A standard one in the fleet has fifty beds, complete pharmacy, operating room, contagious ward, as well as auxiliary dressing stations and convalescent desks about the ship. Doctors, pharmacists, nurses and internes are present in proper proportions. A battleship's carpenter shops and ashore in thirty-six hours. It has been done. Machine shop, electrical pair shops, pattern shop, refrigerating and ice plants, foundry and tobacco and candy shop are all exactly as they would be in a city ashore, except cleaner and better regulated. A public library and church are not missing. Last but not least is the galley. I smell 2500 eggs frying as I write. They smell pretty good, too.

BIRTH NOTE.

A son was born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Julius Tiedt of North Fifteenth street.
